Major Announcements: E3 2016 Delivers

Top 5 All Time Games

- Elder Scrolls
- NBA Jam
- GTA Series
- WWF No Mercy (N64)
- Golden Eye (N64)

Another successful Electronic Entertainment Expo (e3) has come and gone for the year 2016. We all watched intently as the major gaming companies unveiled the new games and hardware that we can look forward to in the coming months.

Microsoft, unveiled the Xbox One S and Project Scorpio"- The next step in gaming and the most powerful console ever built with an impressive 6 Teraflops of computing speed- which will debut during the holiday season of 2017. They also announced that it's very important for the fans to know that all Xbox One games will work on the new system.

Sony unveiled lots of games during their press conference which included Call of Duty Infinite War, God of War, Spiderman and a re-mastering of the classic Crash Bandicoot series. Sony also announced that the PlayStation VR will include Star Wars Battlefront: X-Wing VR Mission, Batman: Arkham VR and Resident Evil 7.

Nintendo's press conference was pretty light only debuting three games; The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild, Pokémon Sun and Pokémon Moon.

With so much to look forward to in the upcoming year. Gamers will have their hands full. Microsoft is leading the way with their powerful new system that will be VR ready and compatible with the already impressive Xbox One gaming catalog. Sony continues to bring new titles to the table that will keep gamers excited with the prospect of new experiences while Nintendo brings us new editions of classic titles. I think that it is safe to say the this year's E3 gave us everything we wanted and a little bit more.

Competitive Gaming Update

The NA & EU Call of Duty World League tournaments are taking place as we speak. The best COD players from all over the world compete in rigorous season long matches to have a chance at large cash prizes and go be counted the CWL champions. The World League is raising the stakes with over $3 million in cash prizes for Pro Division participants, including $250k per stage in North America, $200k per stage in Europe. Yes, you can make millions playing the same game you play in your pajamas. All tournaments will be live streamed free on the Call of Duty World League site at CallofDuty.com/CWL.

Netflix Revamps a Classic: Voltron is Back!!!

Alas the story of the great beast lion continues once again. Forgive me for I am a generation ahead of the whippersnappers who aren't aware of the Legendary defender. Peter Cullen (aka optimus prime) did the introduction for the show. Although Even if you don't remember the 80's, the pilot episode brings you up to date. Minor changes were made but it mimics the original Japanese version with cool fight scenes. This time they switched up the dialogue changed the pilots a bit, revamped the graphics and now I'm hooked . Check out Voltron on Netflix.

For those who don't know Voltron is a super kick ass robot warrior.

Retro Gaming

It was a cool Saturday evening in the summer of 2001. What made today different from others was that Summerslam just ended on PPV. We popped in black N64 cartridge of "No Mercy" and whipped out all our translucent controllers. First two teams up were Tyler and I vs. Trevor and Clay. Fortunately we won this battle fairly easily thanks to some weapons from the crowd and a few swan ton bombs from the top rope. It also helped that we 3-DEED Clay enough times to be pronounce clinically dead . Next, it was every man for himself in a classic royal rumble match. Looking back from 15 years ago we still cherish those memories and make new ones. Golden eye, Mario Kart, Tekken, SF2 Turbo, Soul Caliber and the list continues. Do you guys have stories of classic games or battles with friends or family? Send them in and will post them on the site.
